Worksheet: Chapter 11 – Building Your Media Literacy Toolkit

This worksheet is designed for high school students to engage with the concepts from Chapter 11: Capstone – Building Your Media Literacy Toolkit. Complete each section thoughtfully to build your personal toolkit and prepare for the final project.

Part 1: Reflecting on Your Media Literacy Journey

- Growth Assessment (Short Answer): Think about how your critical thinking and source evaluation skills have improved. Describe one specific moment or activity from this course where you successfully identified misinformation or bias. What did you do to figure it out? (2-3 sentences)
- Strengths and Weaknesses (Fill in the Blank):
 - My strongest media literacy skill is _____ because _____.
 - One area I need to improve is _____ because _____.

Part 2: Creating a Personal Media Consumption Guide

- Setting Boundaries (Checklist): Create rules for balanced media use. Check off the boundaries you'll commit to and add one of your own.
 - Limit social media to _____ hours per day after homework.
 - No phone or screens after _____ p.m. to protect sleep.
 - Only use trusted sources like _____ for news and research.
 - My own rule: _____.
- Curating Reliable Resources (List): Write down 3 trusted tools or outlets for fact-checking and news that you'll keep in your "Media Toolkit." Explain briefly why you chose each.
 - Tool/Outlet 1: _____ Reason: _____
 - Tool/Outlet 2: _____ Reason: _____
 - Tool/Outlet 3: _____ Reason: _____

Part 3: Commitment to Lifelong Critical Thinking

- Personal Pledge (Short Answer): Write a 3-sentence pledge to stay a critical thinker for life. Example: "I promise to question every piece of media I see and check its source. I'll share only what I know is true to protect my friends and community. I'll use my skills to support democracy by spotting fake political news."
- Connecting to Global Issues (Matching): Match the media literacy skill to the global issue it can help address.

- A) Fact-checking political claims
- B) Spotting greenwashing or false environmental stats
- C) Challenging stereotypes in media portrayals
- ___ Climate Change
- ___ Democracy
- ___ Equity

Part 4: Final Project – Media Literacy Action Plan

Objective: Develop a personal or group plan to apply the media literacy skills you’ve learned in this course. Your plan should focus on making a positive impact, whether in your own life or your community. You will present this plan to your class or teacher.

Instructions:

- Choose Your Focus (Individual or Group): Decide if you’ll work alone or with classmates. Pick one actionable idea to apply your media literacy skills. Examples include:
 - Teaching peers how to fact-check through a workshop or poster campaign.
 - Starting a blog or social media page to share tips on spotting misinformation.
 - Monitoring and improving your own digital habits (e.g., reducing screen time, curating better sources).
 My Focus: _____
- Outline Your Plan (Short Answers):
 - Goal: What do you want to achieve with this action plan? (1-2 sentences)
 - Steps: List 3 specific steps you’ll take to make this happen. (e.g., “Create a 5-minute video on spotting fake news,” “Share it in a school assembly,” “Track how many peers use the tips.”)
 - Tools/Skills: Which media literacy skills or tools from this chapter will you use? (e.g., fact-checking sites, critical thinking questions)
 - Impact: How will this plan help you or others? (1-2 sentences)
- Presentation Prep (Checklist): Plan how you’ll share your action plan with others. Check off your preparation steps:
 - Create a visual (poster, slideshow, or short video) to explain my plan.
 - Practice explaining my goal and steps clearly in under 5 minutes.
 - Include at least one example of how media literacy skills apply to my plan.
 - Be ready to answer questions from classmates or the teacher.
