Instructions:

Please complete all activities in this worksheet. Write your answers in the spaces provided or on separate sheets if needed.

Chapter 1: Introduction to Negotiation and Persuasion - Worksheet

This worksheet is designed to help you reflect on the key concepts, apply your learning, and test your understanding through short activities and questions. Complete the sections below and discuss your answers with a classmate or teacher if possible. Let's reinforce those superpowers!

Part 1: Real-Life Application (Reflection Activity)

Think about a recent situation in your life (at school, home, or with friends) where you could have used negotiation or persuasion. Answer the prompts below to brainstorm how you might apply these skills.

- Situation: Briefly describe the situation (e.g., wanting more screen time, deciding on a group project role).
- Skill Choice: Would you use negotiation or persuasion? Why?
- Strategy: What would you say or do to achieve your goal? (e.g., offer a compromise or appeal to emotions/logic)

Part 2: Mini Challenge (Practical Task)

Try a small negotiation or persuasion challenge this week. Pick something low-stakes, like convincing a friend to try a new activity or negotiating chore duties at home. After trying it, answer below:

- What did you try?
- How did it go? (Did it work? Why or why not?)
- What would you do differently next time?

Part 3: Knowledge Check (True or False)

Mark each statement as True (T) or False (F) based on what you've learned in Chapter 1.

- Negotiation is primarily about reaching a mutual agreement through compromise. ____ (T/F)
- Persuasion focuses on changing someone's mind without considering their emotions. ____ (T/F)
- Negotiation and persuasion skills are only useful for adults in professional settings. ____ (T/F)
- Mastering these skills as a high schooler can boost confidence and improve relationships. ____ (T/F)

Note for Students: This worksheet is a tool to help you internalize the concepts from Chapter 1. Once completed, review your answers to identify areas where you feel confident or need more practice. Keep this worksheet as a reference for future chapters, and remember: every small step builds your communication superpowers!
