Persuasion Skills Worksheet for Chapter 5: The Art of Persuasion

This worksheet helps you apply key ideas from Chapter 5 in a quick, fun way. It covers the main sections—Principles of Influence, Credibility and Trust, Logic and Emotion, Storytelling, and Ethical Persuasion. Complete each short activity to build your persuasion skills for real-life situations like school projects or convos with friends and family. Let's get started!

Part 1: Principles of Influence – What Makes People Say “Yes”?

Objective: Spot how influence works in everyday life. Activity – Influence Spotter (2 min): Think of a time someone convinced you to do something (or try to recall a recent ad). Which principle was used? (e.g., Liking, Scarcity, Social Proof)

- What happened? _____
- Principle used: _____ Quick Plan: Pick one principle (like Reciprocity) to use this week. How will you try it? (e.g., do a favor before asking for one)
- My plan: _____

Part 2: Building Credibility and Trust – Be Believable

Objective: Practice ways to seem trustworthy. Activity – Trust Check (2 min): Rate yourself 1-5 (1 = needs work, 5 = awesome) on being honest and reliable in your last convo where you tried to persuade someone.

- Honesty: ___ /5
- Reliability: ___ /5 Quick Plan: What's one way to boost trust next time? (e.g., back up ideas with facts)
- My idea: _____

Part 3: Logic and Emotion – Balance Head and Heart

Objective: Mix facts and feelings for stronger arguments. Activity – Mini Pitch (3 min): Think of something small to convince someone of (e.g., picking a movie). Write 1 logical reason and 1 emotional hook.

- Logical reason (fact/why): _____
- Emotional hook (feeling): _____ Quick Plan: Who will you pitch this to? How will you say it?
- My target & approach: _____

Part 4: Storytelling – Make Your Point Stick

Objective: Turn an idea into a short, memorable story. Activity – Story Snap (3 min): Pick a simple request (e.g., more free time). Write a 2-sentence story with a problem and a solution. Keep it vivid!

- My mini-story: _____

Quick Plan: Tell this story to someone. Note their reaction (did they smile, agree?).

- Reaction goal: _____

Part 5: Ethical Persuasion – Keep It Fair

Objective: Ensure your persuasion respects others. Activity – Ethics Check (2 min): Imagine you want a friend to help with a project. Write 1 ethical way to ask and 1 manipulative way.

- Ethical way (fair, no pressure): _____
- Manipulative way (guilt/force): _____ Quick Plan: Why is the ethical way better for your friendship?
- My thought: _____

Part 6: Quick Action Challenge – Test Your Skills

Objective: Try persuasion in real life. Activity – Mini Goal (2 min): Pick one small thing to persuade someone about this week (e.g., a group idea). Choose 2 Chapter 5 strategies to use (like Storytelling & Logic).

- My goal: _____
- Strategies I'll use: _____ Post-Try Reflection: After trying, jot 1 thing that worked or didn't.
- What happened: _____

Final Thought (1 min): How can persuasion help you at school or home? Write 1 idea.

- My idea: _____
