Worksheet for Chapter 1: Understanding Self-Advocacy

Instructions: Grab a pen, and let's make self-advocacy actionable! Complete these activities and keep this worksheet as a personal record of your growth.

Activity 1: Self-Advocacy Word Puzzle

Let's start by reinforcing key terms from Chapter 1. Use the clues below to fill in the crossword-style word puzzle. Words can go across or down. (Note: For simplicity, imagine a small grid or list the words with numbers.)

Clues:

- Speaking up for your needs respectfully (13 letters: starts with S)
- Behaviour that disregards others' feelings (10 letters: starts with A)
- Something you are entitled to as a student (5 letters: starts with R)
- Something personal you require to succeed (4 letters: starts with N)
- A skill self-advocacy helps build (12 letters: starts with I)

Activity 2: Role-Play Cards

Practice self-advocacy by acting out real-life scenarios. Cut out or imagine the cards below (or work with a partner/classmate). Pick one scenario, read it aloud, and act out how you would advocate for yourself. If working alone, write a short 2-3 sentence script for your response.

Scenario Cards:

- Card 1: School Issue - You're struggling with a project deadline and need an extension. Approach your teacher. Script/Action: _____
- Card 2: Peer Issue - A friend keeps borrowing your things without asking, and it bothers you. Talk to them. Script/Action: _____

- Card 3: Personal Need - You feel overwhelmed with after-school activities and want to discuss reducing your load with a parent or coach. Script/Action: _____

Reflection: After completing one or more role-plays, jot down one thing you found easy or hard about speaking up.

Activity 3: Self-Advocacy Vision Board Sketch

Create a mini vision board sketch that represents your self-advocacy goals. Draw or describe 3 images, symbols, or words that show what self-advocacy means to you (e.g., a megaphone for speaking up, a shield for protecting your rights, or a confident smile). Use the space below to sketch or write.

Vision Board Space:

- Element 1 (Draw/Describe): _____ Why it represents self-advocacy: _____
- Element 2 (Draw/Describe): _____ Why it represents self-advocacy: _____
- Element 3 (Draw/Describe): _____ Why it represents self-advocacy: _____

Activity 4: Self-Advocacy Action Challenge

Let's put self-advocacy into practice with a small, real-world challenge. Choose one mini-goal from the list below to complete within the next week. After completing it (or planning how to), write a quick note about what you did or plan to do.

Mini-Goals (Pick One):

- Ask a teacher for clarification on an assignment or topic you don't understand.
- Tell a friend or classmate how you feel about something they did that bothered you (in a calm way).
- Speak up in a group setting (like a class discussion or club meeting) to share your idea or opinion.

Action Note: Chosen Goal: _____ What I Did/Plan to Do: _____

How It Felt/Would Feel: _____

Activity 5: Group Discussion Starter

This activity works best in a classroom or with friends, but you can also brainstorm alone. Pick one of the discussion prompts below and write down 2-3 key points you'd share if you were discussing self-advocacy with others. If in a group, take turns sharing.

Discussion Prompts (Pick One):

- Why is self-advocacy important for teens at school?
- What's one way self-advocacy can help solve conflicts with friends or family?
- How can teachers or adults support teens in practicing self-advocacy?
