

Chapter 4

Worksheet

Instructions:

Please complete all activities in this worksheet. Write your answers in the spaces provided or on separate sheets if needed.

Worksheet: Chapter 4 – Overcoming the Goal-Setting Obstacles

Hey Goal-Setters! Grab a pen, some colour (if you're feeling artsy), and let's get started! Answer honestly—there's no right or wrong here, just YOUR journey.

Part 1: Procrastination – Busting the “I’ll Do It Later” Habit

Reflection Question (Write 2-3 sentences): Think about a time you procrastinated on a goal or task (like homework or a personal project). Why do you think you delayed starting? How did it make you feel afterward?

Practical Exercise: 5-Minute Challenge Pick one small task you've been putting off (e.g., organizing your backpack, starting a study session). Set a timer for 5 minutes and work on it right now (or as soon as possible). After, answer:

- What task did you pick? _____
- How much did you get done in 5 minutes? _____
- How do you feel after starting? _____ Tip: Use this trick whenever you're tempted to say “later”!

Part 2: Social Media Comparison Trap – Focus on YOUR Highlight Reel

Reflection Question (Write 2-3 sentences): Have you ever felt “less than” after seeing someone's post on social media (like their grades, looks, or achievements)? What did you compare to them, and how did it affect your confidence or goals?

Creative Task: My Win Board List 3 things YOU'VE accomplished recently (big or small—like finishing a tough assignment or helping a friend). Then, draw a quick symbol or doodle next to each to make it pop (like a star or trophy).

- Win: _____ Doodle: [Draw here]
- Win: _____ Doodle: [Draw here]
- Win: _____ Doodle: [Draw here] Tip: Look at this list instead of social media when you need a confidence boost!

Part 3: Managing Expectations – Good Enough Is Great

Reflection Question (Write 2-3 sentences): Is there a goal or task where you've aimed for “perfect” and it held you back (like rewriting something over and over)? What happened, and how could “good enough” have helped?

Practical Exercise: Time-Limit Test Think of a current task (like a school project or personal goal). Decide on a “good enough” standard (e.g., “My essay needs 3 solid points, not 10 perfect ones”). Set a time limit to stop working on it (e.g., 1 hour). Write your plan:

- Task: _____
- “Good Enough” Standard: _____
- Time Limit: _____ After trying it, note: Did stopping at “good enough” free up time or reduce stress? _____

Part 4: Dealing with Setbacks – Bounce Back Like a Champ

Reflection Question (Write 2-3 sentences): Describe a recent setback you faced with a goal (like failing a test or missing a deadline). How did you react at first, and what did you do (or could you do) to move forward?

Creative Task: Setback Superhero Sketch Turn your setback into a superhero story! Write a 3-sentence mini-story where you’re a hero who faces this obstacle and learns a “power” from it (like patience or planning). Then, draw a quick stick-figure version of your superhero self.

- Story:
- Sketch: [Draw your superhero here] Tip: Remember this “power” when you face future setbacks!

Part 5: Finding Balance – Avoid Goal Overload

Reflection Question (Write 2-3 sentences): Do you ever feel overwhelmed by too many goals or responsibilities (like school, hobbies, and social stuff)? List a few things on your plate right now, and how does juggling them make you feel?

Practical Exercise: Goal Priority Jar List up to 5 current goals or tasks you’re working on. Pick only 2-3 to focus on right now (your “priority jar”). Write the rest as “future focus” to revisit later.

- Current Goals/Tasks:
-
-
-
-
-
- Priority Jar (2-3 to focus on now):
-
-
-
- Future Focus (to tackle later):
-
-

After sorting, note: Do you feel less stressed with fewer active goals? _____

Part 6: Group Activity Tie-In – Goal Obstacle Course Reflection

Reflection Question (Write 2-3 sentences): If you participated in the “Goal Obstacle Course” group activity (or imagine you did), which obstacle (Procrastination Pit, Comparison Corner, etc.) felt most relatable to your life? What solution did your team come up with, and how could you apply it to a real goal?

Bonus Challenge: My Obstacle-Crushing Plan

Pick Your Biggest Obstacle: From the 5 obstacles in this chapter, choose the one that trips you up the most. Circle it:

- Procrastination
- Social Media Comparison

- Perfectionism
- Setbacks
- Goal Overload

Action Step: Write one specific tip or activity from this chapter (or worksheet) that you'll try this week to overcome it.

- My Tip/Activity: _____
- How I'll Use It (be specific): _____ Stick This Somewhere Visible! Tape this plan to your desk, locker, or phone case as a reminder.

Fun Wrap-Up: Give yourself a "Goal Warrior" nickname based on how you'll crush this obstacle (e.g., "Procrastination Slayer"). Write it here and share it with a friend for a laugh!

- My Nickname: _____